

CARLY FIORINA

Throughout an extraordinary business career and now as chairman and CEO of HP, Carleton S. "Carly" Fiorina has earned the respect and admiration of leaders around the world.

Fiorina joined HP in 1999, and restored the company focus on technological invention and innovation. She led HP's controversial merger with Compaq Computer Corp., now recognized as the most successful high-tech merger in history.

Named by Fortune magazine as the most powerful woman in business, Fiorina demonstrates that the future isn't created by cynics and doubters; it is made by those who believe that everything is possible.
